STUDENT MOTORCOACH SAFETY GUIDE

Taking the time to choose a safe motorcoach company will result in transportation for your students that is statistically proven to be America's safest means of travel.

The United Motorcoach Association has created a guide on the basics for choosing a safe transportation company.

1. Price must not be the only reason for selecting a company. While the price of a trip is important, good safety practices are more important. Log on to www.Safersys.org where you can check with the US Dept of Transportation for a carrier's safety record. Please feel free to call Klein's for assistance in interpreting the statistics.

2. Not all transportation companies are equally safe. The complete set of regulations for commercial motorcoach carriers can be found at www.fmcsa.dot.gov. Please make sure the company you select is operating by these rules.

3. If you select a travel agent for your tour planning – Ask what transportation company is provided so you can determine if the company is safe by using steps 1 and 2.

SAFETY SHOULD ALWAYS COME FIRST !
